Against a background of magnolia, ivy, and tall standards of white gladioli the ceremony was performed by Elder David C. Banks, the father of the groom.

PLENTY OF SPEED YET IN THE OLD CAR
Statesboro Business Man Distances Young Buck In 1941 Model On Road Race
Do not undersell these old automobiles. They may still be able to outrun a deer. Hoke Brunson, president of the Chamber of Commerce, was moving his family from the coast in a 1941 model car last week when a young buck gave challenge for a race. Mr. Brunson won. At least he killed the deer with this old, antiquated 1941 car that he thought was worn out.

A doe and young buck, weighing about 75 pounds, attempted to cross the road in front of Mr. Brunson on Route 30 this side of the Ogeechee river. Mr. Brunson's car was very heavily loaded, too much for any dog, about. It was filled with the sort of things used for keeping house on the coast. Mr. Brunson saw the doe and was making certain that he did not hit her, but had not seen the buck until he had struck it. Both hind legs were broken by the car. Mr. Brunson finished the deer off with a wrench.

The tough part of the whole story was that Mr. Brunson was so heavily loaded that he could not keep the deer. A car pulled up back of him and he gave it to them, not noticing who it was. Later he found out it was Lamar Mikell, who works in the post office here.

LEADERS ENDORSE THE BUREAU DRIVE

Vigorous Campaign For Members To Be Conducted Throughout Entire County
Action of the board of directors of the Georgia Farm Bureau Federation in designating the week of September 22-28 as Farm Bureau week throughout the state has provoked widespread comment from state officials, senators and congressmen. Endorsing the movement and urging farmers of the state to affiliate with the Farm Bureau in the respective counties, statements have been issued by Governor Arnall, Governor-Nominee Eugene Talmadge, Senator George, Senator Russell, the state delegation in the U. S. House of Representatives, Lt. Gov. Nominee M. E. Thompson, Tom Linder, commissioner of agriculture, and others prominent in the life of the state and nation, the state Farm Bureau office in Macon revealed.

A special Farm Bureau edition of the Georgia Farm Bureau News will be issued this month carrying the complete state and county officials, setting forth the importance of a strong organization of farmers and what it will contribute to the economic welfare of the people of Georgia, Yandell said.

PLENTY OF SPEED YET IN THE OLD CAR
Statesboro Business Man Distances Young Buck In 1941 Model On Road Race
Do not undersell these old automobiles. They may still be able to outrun a deer. Hoke Brunson, president of the Chamber of Commerce, was moving his family from the coast in a 1941 model car last week when a young buck gave challenge for a race. Mr. Brunson won. At least he killed the deer with this old, antiquated 1941 car that he thought was worn out.

A doe and young buck, weighing about 75 pounds, attempted to cross the road in front of Mr. Brunson on Route 30 this side of the Ogeechee river. Mr. Brunson's car was very heavily loaded, too much for any dog, about. It was filled with the sort of things used for keeping house on the coast. Mr. Brunson saw the doe and was making certain that he did not hit her, but had not seen the buck until he had struck it. Both hind legs were broken by the car. Mr. Brunson finished the deer off with a wrench.

The tough part of the whole story was that Mr. Brunson was so heavily loaded that he could not keep the deer. A car pulled up back of him and he gave it to them, not noticing who it was. Later he found out it was Lamar Mikell, who works in the post office here.

While the convention the local retail monument dealer saw exhibits of the newest and most modern monument and memorial designs and witnessed demonstrations of many new products for increasing efficiency and production in the industry.

BLUE LUPINE MAY FOLLOW PEANUTS

Trappell Is Pioneer In Bulloch County In The Cultivation Of The Crop
Blue lupine can be planted in the peanut fields immediately after the peanuts are plowed and stacked, according to A. J. Trappell, who probably planted more lupine in 1945 than any other one individual in the county.

Mr. Trappell said that he found it best to just drill the lupine seed in the land without further plowing. Then when he picked the peanuts, he turned over the field as usual without any damage to the lupine. Livestock normally will not eat lupine because of the bitter taste.

The men using lupine last year for a cover crop found that 75 to 100 pounds of seed per acre gave better growth early than 50 to 60 pounds, as normally recommended. John W. Davis said don't plant less than 100 pounds and use twice the recommended inoculation for best results. Mr. Davis has planted them the past two years and has found that the planting seed with a combine in the spring.

Carlos Brunson says that fertilizing the lupine with acid phosphate, or super phosphate, at the rate of some 300 pounds per acre, is best.

Many of the fellows planting lupine try to get time and phosphate broadcast on their land ahead of the drill. Bulloch county planted some 130,000 pounds of winter legumes last fall. Indications are they will again plant as many or more. Only some 35 percent of the farmers in the county planted lupine in 1945. In 1944, according to AAA records, AAA makes a payment to farmers for these soil conservation practices.

Learned A Lesson

THE LESSONS dearest bought are these which ought to profit most—they ought to sink deeper and stick longer.

We sat with a Bulloch county farmer a day or two ago who had a good fat check in his pocket and a smile on his face. He had sold a bale of cotton at around 36 cents per pound; that was the reason for the fat check, and the check was the reason for the smile.

This farmer had been to school and learned a lesson which he said he proposed to turn to profit. Then he told us that in a previous boom—something akin to the condition which we are now going through—he brought two bales of cotton to Statesboro for which he was offered 40 cents per pound. That meant $400 for the two bales. Optimists who had seen cotton sell at 10 cents per pound told him those days were forever gone—that henceforth cotton would go up instead of down. The farmer listened, he said, to the optimist, and held his cotton for 45 cents, which he believed was a fairly reasonable price.

Then he told us what happened: The warehouse accepted his cotton at a minimum charge and held it for the rise which he was sure would come. When the wait was over, he sold his cotton for 11 cents per pound ($110) and paid $17 warehouse charges.

The cost of his education had thus been $307. He said the lesson had stuck in his mind, and there would never be any holding of cotton for him.

The lesson that man learned has been taught to millions of other fairly sensible people, but they have forgotten it. Tossing aside the certainty that what has happened in the past will happen again, there are fairly wise men who are riding wild to a fall. Don't blame this paper for saying so—there are people who are so sure that the future will be like the past, they are willing to bet their lives on it. Money is being laid today which will never be paid back.

Who Do We Owe?

AN EASY-GOING FRIEND of ours was discussing with some vehemence the matter of increasing national debt. He knew the situation from a personal standpoint—conditions are better with him than they ever have been in the past, and he had no fear that he will ever be called upon to pay any part of the nation's indebtedness.

Said the man, with a wisdom born of ignorance, "What if the nation owes eighty billion dollars—it's ourselves who are the creditors!" His philosophy was merely to ignore the fact that the nation is composed of two elements—those who have, and are responsible for the cost of operation in the one group; and those who have not, and are beneficiaries of extravagance on the other side. A bankrupt man—who has nothing nor expects to have—can remain indifferent to a debt which stands against him and his neighbors. A nation is not made stable by a group without a reserve of substance. Those men and women who have a reserve stand to suffer when the times come; and those who are pay-day consumers and who are creditors—who actual benefits of obligation—will be the losers when and if payments are in default.

No man has ever made himself richer by overtaxing his credit. Those who extend credit to such men knowingly are unwise. If we who live today are unwise about the payment of our nation's debts—if we are willing to defer payments to be borne by generations to come after us—we are placing an obligation upon those who are now responsible for the creation of the indebtedness. A man who will create an obligation to be borne by his grandchild, is not playing fair with that child. He is displacing with those who are to come after him. Honorable, frugal men have ambition to leave the world better for their having lived; dishonest men leave debts for others to struggle with when they are gone.

THOUSAND DOLLAR PRIZE FOR PICKER

Champion Will Receive Handsome Purse for His Prowess in Cotton Patch

Blithville, Ark., Sept. 10.—With entries being received every day and the contest field promising to yield nearly two bales to the acre, the seventh annual national cotton picking contest, to be held in Blithville, Ark., October 3, will be the biggest since the first contest in 1940, Bill Wyatt, chairman of the event, announced today.

Last year's number of entries—154—is expected to be at least doubled this year. Hopeful pickers from Benton Harbor, Mich., to Childress county, Texas, have already sent in their $10 entry fee.

The grand prize of $1,000 won last year by Bill Adams, of Leachville, Ark., means that the world's champion picker receives $800 an hour for his work. Thirty other contestants will win prizes ranging from $250 to $25, with total prizes amounting to $2,500.

Contestant in prior years have discovered that quantity is not the important factor in the contest. Grading is done on the 100 per cent basis, with quantity, cleanliness of cotton picked and the condition of the rows after picking counting equally.

In addition to the actual cotton picking, a variety of entertainment has been arranged. During the day such entertainers as "Red" Foley, WSM and Grand Ole Opry star, will perform for the crowd.

Speakers chosen for the occasion this year have not been able to give a definite acceptance yet; last year the principal speaker was Clifton B. Anderson, secretary of agriculture.

A "Cotton Ball" with dancing to the music of a "name band," will end the day's events.

The contest is held in Mississippi county, Ark., known as the world's largest cotton producing county, with one year's crop amounting 267,000 bales.

Inquiries and applications may be addressed to the National Cotton Picking Contest, or the Junior Chamber of Commerce, sponsor of the event, at Blithville, Ark.

LONGLEAF FUTURE PROSPECT IS GOOD

State Forestry Division Announces Abundant Supply For Restocking Seedlings

The Georgia Department of Forestry announced that an abundant crop of longleaf pine seed and a good supply of slash pine seed gives promise of an excellent supply for natural restocking of pine seedlings.

W. H. McComb, district forester, Statesboro, stated that the longleaf pine trees are producing one of the largest crops of seed this season that has been seen in the past several years. He added that in the past several years the state has taken advantage of this opportunity to restock their understocked land and it is absolutely necessary to keep fire out of the restocking area. Fire will destroy the mass and also the small trees after the seeds have germinated.

The most economical method of building up the growing stock of our forest is by natural reproduction which occurs when the cones on the trees mature after two growing seasons, then open and the seed fall to the ground and germinate. The pine mass began to fall around September 1st and as a longleaf pine has good seed crop only about every seven years the forest owners are urged to take full advantage of this years seed crop. They should keep fire from destroying the seed and seedlings in order to get a well stocked stand of timber. The maximum revenue from our forest can only be obtained from well stocked stands of timber. Fully stocked stands produce the greatest yield possible.

FLETCHER-THOMAS

The announcement which follows will be of interest to friends of the Fletcher family here, the bride being the daughter of Mrs. Walter Norwood Fletcher, of Dothan, Ala., and the late Mr. Fletcher, former residents of Statesboro. Mrs. Fletcher holds a position as mortician with Ward-Wilson Funeral Home in Dothan. The bride was a student at the University of South Carolina, Columbia, S. C.

Surrounded with much interest is the marriage of Miss Billie Jewell Fletcher, daughter of Mrs. Walter Norwood Fletcher, of Dothan, Ala., to Mark Wooding Thomas Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Mark W. Thomas, of Savannah. The wedding took place at the Foster Street Methodist church in Dothan at 2 o'clock Saturday evening, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. E. A. Childs, pastor of the church. The wedding music was played by Mrs. W. S. Williams and Mrs. Elmer Pollan Jr. gave a violin selection during the ceremony.

The bride, who was unattended, entered with the groom and wore a grayish-blue coat suit and hat with black accessories and a corsage of yellow orchids. She carried a hand-made lace handkerchief which had been used at weddings in the groom's family for a century.

Dr. Newt Guffin, of Atlanta, cousin of the groom, acted as best man. Mrs. Fletcher, mother of the bride, wore a black crepe dress with a lace yoke outlined with gold sequins, and a corsage of gardenias.

Mrs. Thomas, mother of the groom, wore a black silk dress with a lace yoke outlined with black sequins, and which she wore a corsage of gardenias.

After the ceremony the bride's mother entertained with a reception at the Dothan library. The bride's table was beautifully decorated with a lace cloth and table linen. A three-tiered wedding cake in the center.

Among the out-of-town guests were the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mark W. Thomas, his sisters, the Misses Mary Leek, Dorothy and Betty Thomas, all of Savannah, and later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Thomas left on a short wedding trip and on their return will be with the groom's parents.

BLUE RAY CHAPTER HONORS PAST OFFICERS
A special feature of Blue Ray Chapter, O. E. S., at the Tuesday evening meeting was a tribute paid to past presiding officers of the chapter—worthy matrons and worthy patrons—still members of the chapter.

As a distinction these officers were requested to occupy all the various officers' posts throughout the entire program, and each past worthy matron was invited to submit a brief review of the activities under her regime. Mrs. Lattrell Addison presided, assisted by D. B. Turner, the only living past worthy patron of the chapter. Not extorting in the order of their administration, but beginning with Mrs. Lillie Deal, who was worthy matron in 1918 (the chapter was organized in 1915) reviewed those distant incidents in the life of the chapter. She was followed by Mrs. O. W. Horne, Mrs. Maude Smith, Fannie Mae Smith, Mrs. Eva Stapleton, Mrs. Cora DeLoach, Mrs. Annie Donaldson Brannen, Mrs. Jean Cone, Mrs. Ethel Walker, Mrs. Pearl Brady and Mrs. Rosa Seligman. Mrs. Mamie Lou Kennedy, a recent past worthy matron, declined because of illness, submitted a brief written story of her year's time.

DINNER HOST
James Donaldson was host at a delightful dinner party Tuesday evening at his home honoring his guests, Carol Herrington and Millard Green, of Waynesboro. Roses formed a lovely centerpiece for the table and a four-course dinner was served. Covers were placed for Mr. Herrington, June Attaway, Mr. Green, Margaret Sherman, Johnny Brown, Mary Janet Agan, Mr. Donaldson, Barbara Franklin.
